

ARREST TWO MORE AS RAID EPILOGUE

U. S. Attorney Considering Problems Arising Over Skirmish on Greek Ship's Deck.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, September 10.—Two important arrests were made today as an epilogue to the dramatic drug and whisky raid on the Greek steamship King Alexander in Brooklyn yesterday, when five seamen were shot in a charge up the gangplank and Frank J. Fitzpatrick, head narcotic investigator, later committed suicide.

The two prisoners added to the twenty-six detained after the entire crew of more than three hundred had been rounded up were Sebas Mentins, fourth officer of the ship, and James Brennan, a dock watchman. They were charged with conspiring to defraud the government.

According to federal agents who planned the raid, Mentins received $600 in marked money and Brennan $300 as preliminary payments for agreeing to smuggle ashore $20,000 worth of narcotics and liquor.

Mentins was found hiding in a coal bunker nursing gunshot wounds in the right arm. Brennan was picked up ashore. Search is being made for another ship's officer found missing after the raid.

Both Mentins and Brennan were subjected to a long examination. It was understood they were questioned as to whether the King Alexander, on previous trips, had brought illicit cargo.

Meanwhile, in the investigation of both smuggling plot and suicide, differences developed between customs men and attaches of the narcotic division of the internal revenue service.

George W. Aldridge, collector of customs, announced he had asked, through Washington, an explanation of the raid, as raids on ships were supposed to be made by customs men under Thomas W. Little, surveyor of the port.

Raid Called Unethical.

Both he and Mr. Little denounced the raid by the narcotic division as "unethical, if not illegal."

They deprecated the valuation of $100,000 to $100,000 placed yesterday on the drugs and liquor seized, and declared they were not worth more than $2,500. They added that the ship had previously been searched by customs men and confiscations made.

"Had we been called upon we would have been glad to co-operate in the raid yesterday," said Mr. Little. "In that event, the raid would have been a success and the decks would not have been littered with wounded."

United States Attorney Collins of Brooklyn today recalled all his agents on vacation and settled down to consider many perplexing phases of the raid. Such, for example, as to whether owners of a ship are liable for actions of the crew and whether the United States could confiscate a foreign craft. The ship is due to sail next Wednesday.

Col. O. G. Forrer of the internal revenue service concerned himself with investigation of Fitzpatrick's suicide. That it was a suicide was confirmed by an autopsy performed today. The official verdict was that after the raid Fitzpatrick had stepped into a pier washroom and fired a bullet into his heart.

SNAKE CAUSES ALARM.

Young Woman in Error on Reptile Being Eight Yards Long.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

HOPEWELL, Va., September 10.—"Lordy, lordy! Save me! There is a snake in the basement storeroom big enough to swallow me whole! He is seven yards long and big around as a telegraph pole!" was the terrified outcry of an employee in the Woolworth store here yesterday to the manager, O. S. Parrish, whom she almost knocked off his feet with the impact of her dash from the basement steps in the rear of the store to the front.

After recovering to some extent from her fright, the young woman was able to inform the manager that she had almost stepped on what appeared to her to be an enormous snake at the foot of the stairway. After learning this much the manager, armed with a large coal shovel, and followed by some of the more adventurous girls employed in the store, led an attack on the snake, and after much excitement the manager succeeded in capturing the cause of it all—one small, fragile-looking snake, which hardly measured eight inches.

The small snake had potentialities, being a spread-head moccasin, but was hardly large enough to cause as much damage as it did to the morale of the employees of the store.

DESTROY 14 STILL IN DAY.

SAVANNAH, Ga., September 10.—Federal prohibition officers went out into the Ogeechee river district this morning to see what they could find. It was a good day. They destroyed fourteen illicit liquor stills within a radius of a few miles. Many of them gave evidence of long service.
